CHAIRMAN'S MESSAGE

A warm welcome to all our guests this spring.

Welcome to La Siesta Magazine our new in-house guest publication. We keep you updated with EHG news initiatives and features on our people who work hard behind the scenes.

Articles on Hanoi and Hoi An cuisine as well as travel tips and recommendations of what to see and do. Testimonials from our guests who tell us in their own words, and through the camera lens, what makes EHG and La Siesta hotels so special.

This edition looks at the opening of La Siesta Classic Hang Be, the latest property in the group, as well as our newest rooftop bar – the Lighthouse Sky Bar. EHG Chairman, Do Van Dan, looks back on 2018 and explains what is in store for 2019.

This spring enjoy great F&B offers, special cocktails, happy hours, restaurant and sky bar promotions. Our F&B section looks at two Red Bean signature dishes. Bánh khúc is a popular Hanoi food at this time of year, while Bánh bèo is a central Vietnam specialty on the menu at Red Bean Hoi An.

Our People section focuses on Nu, General Cashier at La Siesta Premium Hoi An who explains why she loves working at the Resort.

The La Spa team reviews the success of the re-brand and introduces you to the Total Foot Treatment - a popular therapy on the spa menu.

The travel section features Hanoi's flower market at Tet and looks at why Hanoi is the little Paris of Asia. Take a trip to Ninh Binh or make the most of a walking tour around Hoi An Ancient town.

5 February is the first day of Tet – the Lunar New Year. Our Tet tips will help you get around Vietnam during this holiday period while we invite you to head to EHG's three Hanoi sky bars for the best views of the city's Tet countdown fireworks.

In the meantime, we wish you a great spring, a happy Tet Lunar New Year and enjoy your time with La Siesta Hotels. Chúc Mừng Năm Mới.

A NEW HOTEL
IN THE CLASSIC
RANGE

Against a backdrop of Hanoi's vibrant, pulsating and energetic Old Quarter EHG's latest property in the La Siesta Classic range is set to open in early 2019. La Siesta Classic Hang Be, with its elegantly dignified white façade, embodies classic charm with Indochina touches, traditional features and period furnishings. On the mezzanine level La Spa, with its six treatment rooms, provides luxury pampering for the body, mind and soul, while EHG's flagship restaurant brand Red Bean, on the 9th floor accommodating 60 covers, leads to the rooftop Lighthouse Sky Bar.

The essence of what makes La Siesta Classic Hang Be rather special is twofold. Firstly, the incorporation of as much external landscaping as possible within the architectural design. The overall effect is a tranquil environment with plants, shrubs and miniature trees overhanging the maze of old streets. It conjures up a feeling of being close to nature within the city. The second feature is the cutting-edge Lighthouse Sky Bar with views over Hoan Kiem Lake and the Red River. Designed in the style of a boat, complete with its own lighthouse, makes this one of Hanoi's most original rooftop bars.

EHG CHAIRMAN MR DO VAN DAN LOOKS BACK ON 2018 & WHAT EHG'S IMMEDIATE PLANS ARE FOR 2019

WHAT HAS BEEN THE MAIN FOCUS DURING 2018?

2018 has been a year of major initiatives relating to rebranding and consolidation. Firstly, the structure is now in place as we launch our new upscale La Siesta brand across three clear categories - Premium, Classic and Trendy. This clarifies the brand positioning, hotels in each category embody the atmosphere and design of that category.

Secondly our award winning La Siesta Spa has been rebranded and relaunched as La Spa giving it a more independent identity while still clearly aligned with EHG. Our third rebrand sees The Gourmet Corner restaurant join the Red Bean ranks as it becomes known as Red Bean Lo Su. This brings us to the Red Bean name; now each branch is named after its location ie. Red Bean Ma May, Red Bean Cau Go and so on.

Last year our second sky bar opened – the Diamond Sky Bar at La Siesta Lo Su. Through a clever design concept, the hotel's rooftop was transformed into three overlapping terraces giving 360 degree views of Hanoi.

EHG NEVER STANDS STILL. WHAT IS IN THE PIPELINE FOR 2019?

2019 is an important year of expansion for EHG. Early this year our latest hotel in the classic range opens - La Siesta Classic Hang Be. It has 50 guestrooms and suites, Red Bean Hang Be, La Spa and an ingeniously designed rooftop bar, which undoubtedly will be a modern iconic symbol in the Old Quarter. The Lighthouse Sky Bar is modeled on a boat and comes with its own lighthouse. The other important factor is we have incorporated plentiful greenery, plants and flowers in the hotel's external architecture bringing nature to our guests.

Mid-year sees the opening of a third wing as our Hoi An resort expands to meet guest demand. There will be 30 new guest suites and a third pool as well as extended tropical gardens.

EHG'S SLOGAN IS 'ENDLESS LOVE OF PERFECTION'. CAN YOU ELABORATE ON THIS?

At EHG we pursue perfection. We know there are always things that can be done better and improved upon and we always aim to make tomorrow better than today. So we work hard to be a leader in the luxury boutique hotel market. All our staff work with passion to achieve the best service possible and to give all our guests a truly memorable experience.

TEAMWORK MAKES LA SIESTA RESORT A GREAT PLACE TO WORK

MS. DANG THIANH NU
GENERAL CASHIER - LA SIESTA PREMIUM HOI AN

6 YEARS OF SERVICE

As a student at the University of Economics - University of Da Nang, Nu supported her studies by working as a cashier at Tran Restaurant in Da Nang. Although her original plan was to work in a government agency, fate took her down the hospitality route. Her first job was as an accountant at the Marina Resort & Spa in Hoi An.

She was born in Thanh Ha pottery village in 1986, where she lives with her husband and 3-year old son.

In early 2013 on her way to work she would pass a building under construction in Hung Vuong Street a few km from Thanh Ha. Curious, she discovered through a friend this was EHG's soon to open La Siesta Resort & Spa. She successfully applied for a job as General Cashier and has worked at the resort ever since June 2013. Her 6 years continues to be a happy positive time. She values her friendly open-minded colleagues and acknowledges the management's caring attitude contributing to her optimistic outlook and personal development. The resort feels like her second home. She has many special memories including one in particular. It was a few years ago during heavy floods in Hoi An. She comments on how hard all the staff worked to support one another during this difficult period. As to the future she wants to further her studies, to work harder and master her skills thereby helping her to contribute even further to EHG's success.

“ OUTSTANDING ON ALL FRONTS

This hotel is a hidden paradise and outstanding value for money. The accommodation and food are amazing and all the staff exemplary in their roles with special mention to the chef in the Temple Restaurant for the exceptional food. “ 5 STAR EVERYTHING!!! HIGHLY RECOMMEND

This hotel was the best we have ever stayed in. The food was exceptionally good with a huge variety of dishes to choose from and the accommodation superb. However, it was the staff who made our stay outstanding, they made us feel as if we were the only guests and went above and beyond the call of duty, special thanks to Tiffany for her kindness. This hotel is in a perfect location and everything is superb. ”

We were five ladies, all well-traveled and felt lucky to have chosen La Siesta classic Lo Su. The hotel is in an excellent location, close to everything but it was the staff that made our visit so special. Nothing was too much trouble for them and they made our holiday outstanding. Added to that the accommodation and food were superb and the spa treatment wonderful plus the rooftop bar with a panoramic view of the city to enjoy a drink. We will definitely be back! ”

GREAT BOUTIQUE HOTEL MATCHED WITH INCREDIBLE SERVICE

This hotel is located on a quiet street away from the chaos of the Old Quarter. It is new and impeccably maintained. The beds are ridiculously comfortable and the food is great with plenty of variety. However, the stars of the show are the staff, a credit to Vietnamese hospitality who go out of their way to make your visit as enjoyable as possible. We do not hesitate to recommend this hotel to everyone. ”

BÁNH KHÚC

Regarded as the unofficial symbol of Vietnam and considered a “gift from God, rice is the nation’s sacred commodity and main staple food. Even the country’s outline pays homage to ‘white gold’, one of the country’s nicknames for rice. The Vietnamese say their country resembles two rice baskets at each end of a pole. One of many types of rice is glutinous/sticky rice which is the basis of a traditional Hanoi specialty called bánh khúc. This is a savory soft mung bean dumpling infused with the distinctive aroma and flavor of khúc (cudweed). It is made by steaming and mixing the leaves with rice flour to form a ‘dough’, wrapped around a ball of green bean paste mixed with pork and a little pepper. The resulting dumpling is rolled in a sticky rice coating and steamed.

Bánh khúc sellers peddle their wares, which are kept warm and served hot, day and night. Cudweed grows along the edges of rice fields and is in season during the January and February lunar months making bánh khúc a popular early lunar new year snack. Ngoai Hoang village south of Hanoi is one of the most famous areas where these tasty dumplings are made.

As you wander Hanoi’s streets this lunar new year period you may hear a familiar cry “ai bánh khúc nóng đây” - who wants hot bánh khúc uc – from sellers announcing the ultimate in comfort food.

At Red Bean Nguyen Quang Bich bánh khúc features on the daily street food buffet menu – one of over 63 dishes.

BÁNH BÈO

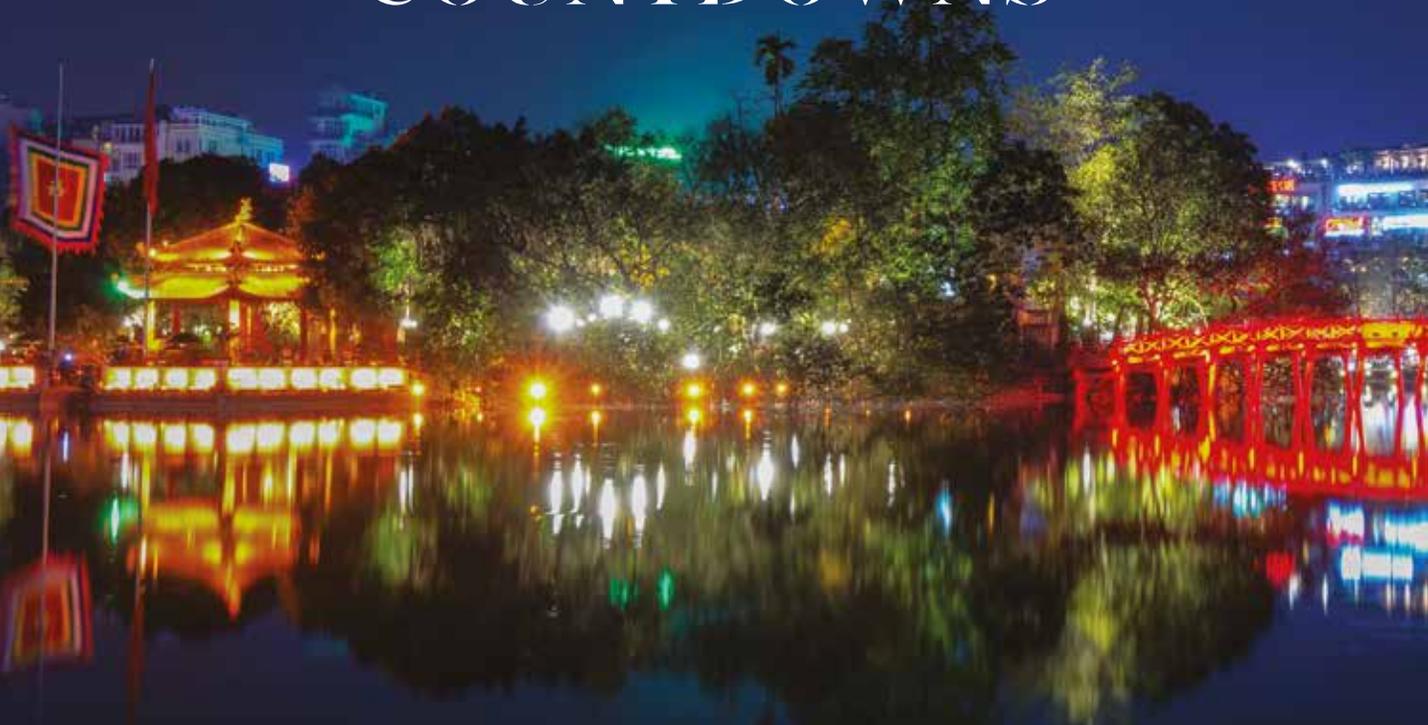

Bánh bèo originates from Hue and is one of the city's most traditional dishes. It is popular throughout central Vietnam, especially in Quang Nam and Quang Ngai although the dish is widely enjoyed throughout the country. The name of the dish refers to its shape. Bánh loosely means cake and bèo means duckweed. Hence, the dish is likened to rounded duckweed and therefore in English is referred to as bloated water fern-shaped cake. Bánh bèo is made from a combination of a rice flour and tapioca starch cake topped with a variety of ingredients. A topping of pork and shrimp is typical of the Da Nang/Quang Nam region. Although a popular a snack, nowadays it features on many restaurant menus.

Bánh bèo is present in modern day Vietnamese slang. Due to the dish's soft rubbery texture bánh bèo is slang for Vietnamese girls who are portrayed as too feminine, weak, too dependent and high maintenance.

Bánh bèo Hue features on Red Bean Hoi An's breakfast menu.

THE LIGHTHOUSE SKY BAR

Hang Be Street originally traded a very basic type of wooden boat called a bè, which means raft in Vietnamese. During the French colonial period the street was known by its French name, Rue des Radeaux (radeaux means rafts). In addition, long ago the Red River flowed much closer to the Old Quarter district and researchers believe Hang Be Street was the site of a river embankment where trading was carried out. It is the street's ancient history which sparked the idea for, and name of, EHG's latest terrace bar – The Lighthouse Sky Bar.

This ambitiously structured bar (unique to Hanoi and Vietnam for that matter) is styled on a boat which creatively plays to the meaning of Hang Be street. The bar is 'moored' over three levels of terrace space (Rooftop floor); its the bow with the bar area overlooks the street while the stern faces the Red River. Glass, metal and wood complement a monochromatic color palette of black, granite grey and hints of cream. Background chill-out music creates a trendy understated vibe. Open air seating at the front and back features ship-shaped black oval clusters of sofas. Trees and flowers bedeck the sky bar's profile as part of the hotel's external architectural greenery. In addition to the bar's name The Lighthouse Sky Bar proudly emblazoned on the side is the vessel's own registration number clearly visible left and right sides of the bow - EHG 6688 – considered a lucky number. However, the pièce de résistance and the bar's uniquely defining feature is the splendid red and white óm high lighthouse complete with flashing light at night which undoubtedly will become an iconic feature of modern Hanoi.

Hoa Lu was the capital of Vietnam, or Dai Co Viet as it was then called, from 968 to 1009, founded by King Dinh Tien Hoang. He reigned for twelve years followed by King Le Dai Hanh who ruled for twenty-nine years.

In 1010 King Ly Thai To moved the capital from the Hoa Lu citadel to the site of present day Hanoi, which he called Thang Long (meaning Rising Dragon). Today there are two temples built in the grounds of the former royal palace, each dedicated to King Dinh Tien Hoang and King Le Dai Hanh.

After lunch in a local restaurant in Tam Coc, where goat meat is a specialty, a short stroll brings us to the boat station for a wonderful two-hour boat trip around Tam Coc. The name Tam Coc means Three Caves and is considered Ha Long Bay on land.

The three limestone caves stretch along the Ngo Dong river and are named Hang Ca, Hang Hai and Hang Ba. Lie back in the boat rowed by a local lady - often using her feet - and enjoy the fabulous views of limestone mountains, rice paddies and temple sites as you drift leisurely from cave to cave.

THE NAME HOI AN
PLACE”

Visiting the UNESCO World Heritage site of Hoi An Old Town is an unmissable experience. The name Hoi An means “peaceful meeting place” and our walking tour aims to provide you with this sense of peace.

In the 17th and 18th Centuries Hoi An was a thriving port, used mainly by Chinese merchants. These wealthy traders came to the area, liked what they saw and decided to build homes here. Today many of these homes are still in existence, carefully preserved, some are now shops whilst others remain as actual homes. They are mainly constructed of wood, with balconies and terraces abounding with brightly colored flowering plants.

Our flexible private tour allows you a choice of places to visit but one site not to be missed is the iconic Japanese Covered Bridge, built originally to join the Chinese and Japanese communities living either side of a stream. It is made of beautifully carved wood and guarded at either end by a pair of dogs and a pair of monkeys.

We visit one of Hoi An’s five Assembly Halls, where the merchants met to conduct business. Each has an ornate entrance gate, leading to a courtyard containing a temple and shrines. We can also visit a museum or watch time-honored Vietnamese folk dancing at the Traditional Art Performance House. Also of interest may be a visit to a local handicraft workshop to watch the making of traditional items such as the iconic Hoi An lanterns or embroidery.

Please contact the front office for more details.

SUBLIME SERVICE FOR THE MIND, BODY & SOUL

Four months have passed since the official re-launch of La Spa. Along with the name change guests have seen a number of other transformations. These range from a new logo, color palette and brand identity to a clearer business philosophy and quality improvements in service. Unlike many spas which focus on offers and promotions, La Spa concentrates on how to make a difference and enhance the spa experience through delivering superior customer service. The successful transformation to the new look spa has been done through continuous efforts, extensive research and creativity. For example, all essential oils and those used in body massage services are high quality traditional Vietnamese oils. We have perfected the massage ritual by creating a rhythmic twist. We have looked at every single element no matter how big or small to refine the quality of service which supports our mission statement “Feeling touched with every touch”.

A passionate spirit and inspired innovation have contributed to La Spa’s successful new look. In addition, our desire to go even further gives La Spa the power and energy to compete with other brands in the Asia Pacific region supported by La Spa’s core values of being:

- Professional and consistent
- Luxurious, meeting world standards
- Honest and trustworthy
- A caring employer

TOTAL FOOT TREATMENT A COMPLETE CARE PACKAGE FOR FEET

The ultimate treat for feet combining a traditional foot massage with a dry and wet scrub which removes dead skin leaving your feet silky smooth.

The focus is on the lower leg, from the knee, moving down to the foot. Firstly, the calf, a part of the body which particularly suffers from fatigue, is massaged. This is followed by an acupressure foot massage. Traditional Chinese reflexology, focusing on pressure points on the feet, has long been used to relieve pain, improve circulation and the immune system. It is believed the condition of all body parts are affected by zones of the feet. For example, the toes, which connect with the head and neck. The second and third toes link to the eyes, while the others correspond with teeth, sinuses and top of the head. The lower part of the little toe connects with the ears.

The third part of the treatment is a pampering session for your feet. A dry and wet foot scrubber cleans and removes the dead skin. The feet are then wrapped in a nutrient rich scrub of coffee and fresh orange juice. Gentle circular motions remove dead dry skin, revealing the new healthy-looking skin underneath. This scrub exfoliates as well as having anti-inflammatory properties.

General note information about these two ingredients used in skin and body treatments. The caffeine in coffee is rich in antioxidants, making it effective in the fight against premature skin aging conditions such as wrinkles, sun spots and fine lines. Scrubbing with coffee can temporarily reduce the appearance of cellulite and increase collagen production. The health benefits of oranges have long been recognized. High in vitamin C and antioxidants, orange juice strengthens the immune system, detoxifies, aids digestion and promotes healthy skin. It can even help alleviate acne as it contains properties to help fight free radicals. Orange juice can make skin look younger, prevent wrinkles, brightens skin and can be used as a skin toner.

As the name of this therapy suggests, your feet will enjoy a complete 'face lift'.

WHAT OUR CUSTOMERS SAY ABOUT LA SPA
& WHY THEY KEEP COMING BACK

Hanoi has been Mr Kimmo's home and place of work for the past four years; in 2015 he came across La Spa at La Siesta Classic Ma May and he is now a familiar face as one of the spa's most loyal customers. Ever since his first visit he endeavors to find time for a treatment once a week, despite his busy work schedule which often takes him out of Hanoi.

So, what is about La Spa that entices him back? Although there are a number of branches in Hanoi, Mr Kimmo always chooses La Spa at 94 Ma May. Before becoming a devoted customer, he tried other spas but recognizes with hindsight they were rather mediocre. Now he only goes to La Spa, the one at 94 Ma May being his favorite. As he explains first impressions count. The quality and consistency of treatments, the techniques applied and overall service are excellent; he can feel everything is far superior to previous spas. This is why he keeps returning.

With over 30 therapies and treatments on the menu to choose from Mr Kimmo's favorite is herbal therapy, sometimes combined with the Total Foot treatment. No spa can be successful without skilled therapists and those at La Spa are some of the best in the business. Sofia is Mr Kimmo's favorite therapist while before her it was Angela. Their skills and techniques are a little different but both are excellent. He praises La Spa for its team of therapists who are caring, highly professional and ensure that all their customers feel totally comfortable.

HANOI

PARIS OF ASIA

UNIQUE FRENCH
ADAPTED FOR THE LOCAL ORIENTAL STYLE OF LIVING
HAS BECOME A CHARACTERISTIC OF THOUSAND-YEAR-OLD HANOI

Hanoi's architecture is a mix of domestic and foreign influences, most notably French, which blend harmoniously with traditional Vietnamese architecture. During the French colonial period from 1873 up to France's defeat in 1954 Hanoi was transformed in almost every way from urban planning, politics and written script to entertainment, health, fashion, cuisine and so on. The French authorities redesigned the city as they laid out a Haussmann-style imitation of Paris. Broad, straight, tree-lined streets in a grid-like pattern were put in place, public parks and squares, colonial-style villas, European style cafes and institutions gave Hanoi a new identity. Where there had been urban disorder the French set out to give the city a new dynamic identity and improved the environment. The new face of Hanoi included some of most iconic buildings inspired by the French:

Hanoi Opera House. A smaller-scale version of the Opera Garnier in Paris. Constructed between 1901 and 1911, it is designed in theater style, based on classical buildings in Renaissance Europe. It remains today one of Hanoi's most highly regarded treasures.

The Metropole Hotel was Hanoi's first 5-star hotel opening in 1901. It is built in the style of the French colonial period with white walls, green window frames, delicate ironwork tracery and a green lawn.

The Presidential Palace (formerly the Governor General's Palace) designed by Auguste-Henri Vildieu between 1901-1906 covers an area of 20 hectares taking pride of place to the side of Ba Dinh Square.

Dong Xuan Market, one of Hanoi's most iconic and largest Old Quarter markets dating back to 1889 was designed by the French company Poinard Veyret. It is a simple design of five blocks each with domes, the stunning front entrance is entirely due to the French influence with its five sculpted triangular arches arranged as a honeycomb with metal roofing.

Saint Joseph's Cathedral built in 1886 closely resembles Notre Dame Cathedral in Paris. It is in the Gothic European style popular in the Renaissance.

It is these and many other examples showcasing the French influence which make Hanoi "The Little Paris of Asia".

TET TIPS

Governed by tradition, taboos and legends, Tet Nguyen Dan welcomes the Lunar New Year and spring's arrival. People honor their ancestors and make offerings at family altars. Custom dictates that actions and thoughts at the start of the lunar New Year influence one's fate and prosperity for the coming 12 months.

A number of factors, which could impact on a trip to Vietnam during Tet, should be taken into account as this is the nation's most important festival and major six/seven-day public holiday.

Significant religious sites such as the Perfume Pagoda and Bai Dinh Pagoda become inundated with Vietnamese visitors. While this is an interesting local experience it also signals travel nightmares, congested roads and jam packed sites.

At Tet people visit families and pay their respects to the ancestors. As such, many businesses close over the three official days of Tet. These include museums, family run restaurants, banks, state enterprises etc., while opening hours of numerous tourist sites will vary during this period.

Public services are limited and/or extremely crowded with a high volume of domestic travelers. Tickets for trains, planes, intercity buses sell out well in advance while prices rise steeply, sometimes by as much as 30%.

While Tet is a good time for shopping, with reasonable prices, as sellers want to start the new year off well, one should avoid aggressive bargaining which is considered to bring bad luck for the year.

An important tradition to take note of is Vietnamese people believe that the first person to visit one's home on New Year's Day dictates the coming year's fortunes. Therefore, this individual should be successful with a good character and moral values. One should not visit Vietnamese families on this day unless invited to.

On the plus side, on the first day of Tet one has the luxury of enjoying normally noisy and crowded places, such as Hanoi's Old Quarter, in complete peace. Wander the unusually empty, quiet streets bereft of people, cars and motorbikes and see the quiet side of Vietnam.

BLOOMING HANOI AT TET

Cho Hoa Quang An (Quang An flower market in Tay Ho district) is Hanoi's largest and best known flower market. It takes on a special significance during the Tet Lunar New Year period when it transforms into a giant garden full of energy and vibrant colors. People visit not only to buy flowers but also to enjoy the whole experience and happy atmosphere.

One needs to be an early riser to catch the flower market at its best. It opens between 03:00 and 04:00 when florists select the best blooms to sell in their shops during the day. Individual customers also buy flowers for their homes and work places. In particular, over Tet flowers play a very important role in ancestor worship when families place them as offerings in pagodas, temples and communal houses.

Flowers sold at the market (loose or in ready-made arrangements and bouquets) come from Hanoi's outer suburbs and as far away as Da Lat 1,400km away. Almost every type of flower is found here - including cherry blossom, lilies, roses, carnations, orchids, chrysanthemums, tulips, hydrangeas, sunflowers, Gerber daisies and so on. Often sellers specialize in one type of flower, making it easier to make a choice. However, two species sold have a deep and poignant significance at Tet. Peach blossom heralds the arrival of spring while the Kumquat tree signifies reunion – both these elements underpin the meaning of Tet.

The weather is significantly cooler at this time of year so people wrap up warmly as they wander among the colorful flower displays. Everyone, young and old, loves the atmosphere that pervades this flower market. Motorbike riders dodge in and out of the displays as they drive away with bunches of flowers strapped to the back of their bikes.

Tanmy Design sits behind a wonderful old facade, and combines the feel of old Hanoi with modern and contemporary architecture and design.

EXPERIENCE TET IN HOI AN

HOI AN IS THE PERFECT PLACE TO EXPERIENCE TET

Tet is also known as known as The ‘Feast of the First Morning of the First Day’. It is when the new and good replace old and bad elements and people turn one year older as traditionally the New Year determines one’s age.

The Tet spirit permeates Vietnam but Hoi An is one of the most endearing places to soak up the atmosphere. While other areas may ‘close down’ as locals take their big annual holiday and enjoy family reunions, Hoi An does more to entertain both international visitors and the local community. Many Hoi An families participate in homestay tours allowing visitors to experience Tet at first hand.

Important traditions are practiced. On the Tet Eve families observe the ancestor ritual. A table is laid with flowers, fruit, banh chung, offering papers for burning, candles, rice wine, boiled chicken, sweets and cakes. The morning of the first day of Tet families exchange greetings while traditionally the elders and young children receive red envelopes containing lucky money.

The family drink tea together and eat candid fruits and various seeds. Four different cakes, particular to Hoi An and the region, are eaten - Banh Tet and Banh To commemorate the ancestors while Banh In and Banh No signify good luck in the New Year.

Also of great significance is the “First Footer” – the person who brings either good or bad luck to the host family, so the choice of person who visits one’s home first is extremely important.

Over the Tet holiday smartly dressed families visit places of worship and ancestor’s graves, making offerings and praying for peace and prosperity in the New Year. After that they will visit relatives and friends, in order of seniority - grandparents first down to friends and neighbors.

Celebrating Tet in Hoi An means you will experience the holiday period as a local.
